88 ANDREI VASILEVSKIY — G 🎍 🗓 🚊 🛓

2024-25 SEASON HIGHS

Saves: 42 (12/28 vs. NYR) Shots: 44 (12/28 vs. NYR) GA: 5 (3x, Last: 3/6 vs. BUF)

2024-25 NOTES: Finished the season 38-20-5 in 63 starts with a 2.18 goals against average and a .921 save percentage. Vasilevskiy ranked second among all NHL goaltenders for wins (38), shutouts (6, tied) and saves (1,581). The Russian netminder ranked third in both save percentage and goals against average among all NHL goalies with at least 40 games played. On November 14, Vasilevskiy recorded his 300th career win and became the 40th goaltender in NHL history to reach the mark, doing so in the fewest number of games (490) of any goalie to hit the milestone. Vasilevskiy's .921 save percentage is good for the third-best of his career and his six shutouts are tied for second in his career. Became the third goalie in NHL history to record eight straight 30-win seasons (also: Patrick Roy 8; Martin Brodeur, 12).

CAREER PLAYOFFS: Vasilevskiy is Tampa Bay's all-time playoff leader for games played (115), starts (110), wins (66), saves (3,203) and shutouts (7). Among all goaltenders in NHL Stanley Cup Playoffs history, Vasilevskiy ranks 11th for saves, 12th for wins, tied for 14th for games played (also: Glenn Hall) and tied for 16th for starts (also: Jacques Plante). Vasilevskiy is one of 20 goaltenders in NHL history to play in 100 playoff games and is currently tied with Ed Belfour for the fourth-best save percentage (.920) among the 20 netminders. Vasilevskiy has recorded a save percentage of .900 or higher in 66.4% of his playoff games, the fourth-highest percentage among goaltenders with 100 or more career playoff games, trailing only Tuukka Rask (71.2%), Roy (67.9%) and Dominik Hasek (67.3%). Vasilevskiy is one of just two goaltenders in NHL postseason history to record six shutouts in potential series-clinching games (also: Clint Benedict). Vasilevskiy posted a 1-4 record with an .897 save percentage and 3.22 goals against average in Tampa Bay's First Round series loss to the Florida Panthers in the 2024 Stanley Cup Playoffs. One year prior, Vasilevskiy went 2-4 with an .875 save percentage and 3.56 goals against average, falling to the Toronto Maple Leafs in the First Round of the 2023 Stanley Cup Playoffs. The Tyumen, Russia, native logged a 14-9 record with a .922 save percentage and 2.52 goals against average when he started all 23 games for the Lightning during the team's 2022 run to the Stanley Cup Final. He stopped all 49 shots he faced in Game 4 of a Second Round series against Florida for his sixth shutout in a series-clinching win and seventh career playoff shutout. Vasilevskiy won six straight games from Game 6 of the First Round vs. Toronto through Game 4 of the Second Round vs. Florida to tie the longest winning streak of his playoff career. He won the 2021 Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP after going 16-7 with a 1.90 goals against average, .937 save percentage and five shutouts, leading the Bolts to a second-consecutive Stanley Cup. Vasilevskiy is the only goaltender born outside North American to win the Conn Smythe Trophy and the 17th goalie overall since the award's inception in 1964-65. He was the third Russian-born player to win the Conn Smythe, joining Alex Ovechkin (2018) and Evgeni Malkin (2009). Vasilevskiy made all 22 saves in the 2021 Cup-clinching Game 5 victory over Montreal to push his streak of series-clinching shutouts to five games, extending the longest such run in NHL history. Vasilevskiy became the first goalie in NHL history with four series-clinching shutouts in a single postseason (also: 18 saves Game 7 SCSF vs. NYI; 29 saves Game 5 2nd Rd. at CAR; 29 saves Game 6 1st Rd. vs. FLA) in 2021. He is the third goalie in NHL history with two Cup-clinching shutouts (also: 22 saves Game 6 2020 SCF at DAL), joining Benedict and Bernie Parent. Vasilevskiy is the second goalie in the NHL's expansion era (since 1967-68) to claim consecutive Stanley Cup titles while earning every victory for his club across each postseason, joining Ken Dryden.

2024-25 NOTES: In his second season with Tampa Bay, Glendening appeared in 77 games and recorded seven points with four goals and three helpers. One of six Lightning skaters to score a shorthanded goal this season, Glendening ranked third among all Bolts forwards for shorthanded time on ice per game at 1:46 (highest: Anthony Cirelli, 2:03). Glendening was once again one of the NHL's premier players in the faceoff circle, winning 57% of his draws to lead Tampa Bay and rank tied for ninth among all NHL skaters (min. 800 faceoffs). The Grand Rapids, Michigan, native blocked 58 shots to rank third among all Lightning forwards while his 4.19 blocks per 60 minutes led the group.

BBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBB

He also logged 105 hits, the third-most among all Bolts forwards. Glendening skated in his 800th career NHL game Nov. 5 at St. Louis and is one of just 18 Michigan-born players to hit the milestone.

CAREER PLAYOFFS: Glendening will be making his seventh appearance in the Stanley Cup Playoffs having previously qualified with Tampa Bay in 2024, Detroit in 2014, 2015 and 2016 and Dallas in 2022 and 2023. He made his Stanley Cup Playoffs debut in Game 1 of a 2014 First Round series against the Boston Bruins and netted his first career postseason goal just one game later. He scored his first career playoff game-winning goal shorthanded in Game 1 of a 2015 First Round series against the Lightning. Glendening has 45 games of playoff experience and has produced five goals and eight points. During the 2024 Stanley Cup Playoffs, Glendening led all Tampa Bay skaters for faceoff win percentage, winning 56.8 percent of his draws. Two seasons ago, he helped lead Dallas to the Western Conference Final after tallying two goals and one assist in 17 postseason contests. His last playoff goal came in Game 5 of the 2023 Western Conference Final, a tying goal that helped the Stars claim a 3-2 victory. Among all Dallas skaters in the 2023 postseason, Glendening ranked third for faceoff win percentage (60%) and second among all Stars forwards for blocked shots (14).

2024-25 NOTES: After signing with Tampa Bay as a free agent on July 2, 2024, Atkinson appeared in 39 games for the Bolts, recording four goals and nine points with one tally coming on the power play. Atkinson skated in his 800th career NHL game January 24 at Chicago, making him the 45th American-born player in NHL history with 800 games played and 250 career goals. He recorded his first point with the Lightning, an assist, October 17 versus Vegas and scored his first goal as a Bolt November 21 at Columbus.

CAREER PLAYOFFS: Atkinson will be making his sixth appearance in the Stanley Cup Playoffs having previously qualified with Columbus in 2014, 2017, 2018, 2019 and 2020. The Riverside, Connecticut, native made his postseason debut in Game 1 of a 2014 First Round series at Pittsburgh. Atkinson logged his first career playoff point one game later with an assist in Game 2 at Pittsburgh. He followed that up with his first career postseason goal in Game 3 on home ice at Nationwide Arena. In total, Atkinson has suited up for 35 career playoff games, all with Columbus, and ranks third all-time in Blue Jackets franchise history for postseason games played. His 10 goals, 16 assists and 26 career points in the playoffs still rank first among all skaters in Columbus franchise history. His last playoff goal came in Game 4 of a 2020 First Round series versus Tampa Bay.

the 20-goal mark for a second-consecutive campaign. Paul finished the regular season with 22 goals and 41 points with a +13 rating and three game-winning tallies. The Mississauga, Ontario, native ranked third among all Lightning skaters for faceoff win percentage at 50% while his 66 hits were the seventh-most among the team's forwards. Paul's 22 goals, 19 assists and 41 points were all the second-highest totals of his career, trailing only his 46-point campaign in 2023-24 when he collected 24 goals and 22 helpers. His +13 rating was the highest of his career. Recorded his 100th career assist on March 15 at Boston.

CAREER PLAYOFFS: Paul will be making his fourth career appearance in the Stanley Cup Playoffs, all of them coming with the Lightning from 2022-25. He skated in all five games for Tampa Bay in a 2024 First Round series versus Florida and ranked tied for third among all Bolts skaters with two goals while his 43 faceoff wins tied for the team lead. Paul made his Stanley Cup Playoffs debut with the Lightning in 2022, notching five goals and nine points in 23 games. He also scored his first two playoff goals in Game 7 of a First Round series at Toronto, netting both of Tampa Bay's goals in the series-clinching win, including the game-winner at 16:32 of the second period. Paul ranked tied for fifth on the Lightning for goals and tied for seventh for scoring in the 2022 postseason. He also scored a game-winning goal in Game 3 of the Stanley Cup Final vs. Colorado while his two game-winning goals during the 2023 Playoffs ranked tied for second on the Lightning.

2024-25 NOTES: For the third-straight season, Point hit the 40-goal mark with 42 goals and 82 points in 77 games for the Lightning. His 16 power-play goals trailed only Jake Guentzel (17 PPG) for the Tampa Bay team lead and were tied with Edmonton's Leon Draisaitl for the second-most among all NHL skaters. Point led the Bolts for goals for the third-consecutive season and the fourth time over the last five campaigns. His seven game-winning goals ranked second among all Bolts skaters (most: Nikita Kucherov, 9 GWG) and tied for 15th in the NHL. Led the Lightning in shooting percentage at 22.2%, the highest among all NHL skaters with 15 or more goals. Skated in his 600th career game on December 5 versus San Jose and became the ninth player in franchise history to hit the milestone. Scored his 300th career goal on March 27 versus Utah, making him the fifth player in franchise history with 300 goals. Collected his 300th career assist on December 8 at Vancouver, becoming the seventh player in franchise history to hit the milestone. Recorded his 600th career point on January 9 versus Boston, making him the sixth player in franchise history with 600 points.

CAREER PLAYOFFS: Point will be making his eighth career appearance in the Stanley Cup Playoffs with all eight appearances coming with the Lightning from 2018-25. He skated in all five games for Tampa Bay in a 2024 First Round series versus Florida and ranked tied for third among all Bolts skaters with two goals while his five points were tied for fourth. During the 2022 Stanley Cup Playoffs, Point became just the second player in Lightning history to score an overtime goal in an elimination game after netting the game-winner in Game 6 of a First Round series vs. Toronto (also: Martin St. Louis, Game 6 of 2004 Stanley Cup Final at Calgary). Point sustained a lower-body injury in Game 7 of the First Round at Toronto and did not play any of Tampa Bay's Second Round series vs. Florida or the Eastern Conference Final vs. the New York Rangers. He returned for Games 1 and 2 of the Stanley Cup Final but did not play the remainder of the series. Point notched 14 goals and 23 points during the 2021 Stanley Cup Playoffs, the second-straight season he scored 14 goals in a single postseason and led all NHL skaters for goals. Point tied his own franchise mark for postseason goals he set a season earlier and finished with six more goals than any other NHL player during the 2021 Playoffs. Point became the eighth different player in NHL history to lead the playoffs for goals in consecutive years (outright or tied) and the first since Edmonton's Jari Kurri in 1987 and 1988. Point was the first player to record 14-plus goals in consecutive playoff years since Mario Lemieux (1991 and 1992). Point had a nine-game goal streak from Game 3 of the 2021 Second Round vs. CAR to Game 6 of the 2021 Stanley Cup Semifinal at NYI, the second-longest such run in NHL playoff history (only PHI Reggie Leach's 10-game goal streak in 1976 was longer). He ranks third in Lightning playoff history for power-play goals (16), fourth for goals (40), and fifth for assists (42) and scoring (82 pts.).

Slotting into a familiar spot on the back end, the 35-year-old defenseman led all NHL skaters with a +43 rating during the regular season, the highest plus/minus recorded in a single season in Lightning franchise history. McDonagh skated in all 82 games for Tampa Bay, recording four goals and 31 points, his second-highest point total for a single season with the Bolts. The St. Paul, Minnesota, native blocked a team-high 152 shots, marking the fifth time in five full seasons with the Lightning that he has led the club in blocked shots. With one blocked shot April 17 against the Rangers, McDonagh pushed his career total for blocked shots to 2,011, the seventh-highest total among all skaters in NHL history. On March 27 versus Utah, McDonagh skated in his 1,000th career NHL game, making him the 27th American-born defenseman in NHL history to hit the milestone. McDonagh ended the season with a shorthanded goal and three shorthanded points, tying him for the second-most shorthanded points among all NHL defensemen.

CAREER PLAYOFFS: McDonagh has made the playoffs in 14 of his 15 seasons in the NHL, going to the Conference Final seven times (2012, 2014 and 2015 with the New York Rangers; 2018, 2020, 2021 and 2022 with Tampa Bay) and the Stanley Cup Final four times (2014, 2020, 2021 and 2022), winning twice. Last season, McDonagh appeared in all six of the Nashville Predator's playoff games, logging one assist and 15 blocked shots while averaging 23:48 of time on ice. McDonagh has played 89 career postseason games with Tampa Bay, ranking third all-time among Lightning defensemen for games played. McDonagh also ranks third among Bolts blueliners all-time in the postseason for assists (21) and points (23). 2024-25 NOTES: One of just three Lightning players to play in all 82 games during the 2024-25 season, Hagel produced the best offensive season of his career, logging 35 goals and 90 points with three shorthanded tallies and a +33 rating. Of Hagel's 35 goals, not a single one came on the power play, making him the first player in NHL history to hit the 35-goal mark in a single season without scoring on the man advantage. His 90 points ranked tied for 11th among all NHL skaters this season. Hagel became just the seventh player in Lightning franchise history to record 90 points in a single season while his 72 even-strength points tied Steven Stamkos (2011-12) for the fourth-most even-strength points in a season in franchise history and ranked fifth among all NHL skaters. His +33 rating tied Tyler Johnson (2014-15) for the fourth-highest plus/minus by a forward in franchise history. The Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, native also recorded seven shorthanded points, tied for second-most among all NHL skaters this season. In February, Hagel represented Team Canada at the NHL's 4 Nations Face-Off and ranked tied for third on the team with nine shots on goal, helping lead the Canadians to a first-place finish with a 3-2 overtime win in the championship game over Team USA. Hagel skated in his 300th career NHL game on October 24 versus Minnesota and scored his 100th career goal November 29 at Nashville.

CAREER PLAYOFFS: Hagel's three goals in the 2024 Stanley Cup Playoffs ranked second among Lightning players, and his five points tied him for fourth on the team. Hagel scored his first career shorthanded playoff goal and point in Game Four and earned his second career game-winning goal in the same game. Hagel earned his first career multi-goal playoff game in Game Four and also recorded a career-high three points in the win. His 23:52 in time on ice during Game Five was the most by any Lightning forward during the 2024 playoffs, and he led Lightning forwards in shorthanded time on ice per game (2:15). Hagel started all six games for the Lightning during the 2023 Stanley Cup Playoffs and produced a goal and five points. He ranked second on the Bolts for assists (4) and tied for third for scoring. Hagel recorded his second career playoff multi-point game with a goal and assist in Game 3 of a 2023 First Round series vs. Toronto. Ended tied with Colorado's Nathan MacKinnon for the NHL lead in assists (84) and paced all NHL players in power-play points (46). Finished with his third 120-point season, becoming the 14th player in NHL history to have at least three such seasons (second active, McDavid). Became the sixth winger in NHL history to record three consecutive 100-point seasons with his 100th point on March 25 vs. PIT. Led all NHL players with 25 multi-assist games and was second in multi-point games (Leon Draisait) 36). His 17 three-point games led the NHL, and his five three-assist games tied him for third most. He had four four-point games, tying Clayton Keller for second most this season (MacKinnon 7). He has five 100-point seasons in his career and is the only player in franchise history with more than one. Scored his 900th NHL point in his 743rd career game Nov. 22 at Columbus, becoming the third fastest active player (McDavid, Sidney Crosby) to hit the number and seventh Russian-born player to hit 900 points all-time. Joined Victor Hedman as the second player in franchise history to record 600 NHL assists on Jan. 18 before overtaking Hedman for the all-time franchise mark in career assists (637). Had his third consecutive 80-assist season, joining Wayne Gretzky, Paul Coffey and Bobby Orr as players to do so. Played in his 800th NHL game April 11 vs. Detroit. His nine game-winning goals tied him for fifth-most in the NHL this season. Passed Martin St. Louis (953) for the second-most points in franchise history Feb. 8 and now has 994, trailing only Steven Stamkos (1,137). Tied Martin

St. Louis for second in career power-play goals April 7 at NYR. Scored a season-high six points with a goal and five assists Dec. 12 at Calgary, tied for the most assists by any player this season and also matching franchise records for assists (5) and points (6) in a game.

CAREER PLAYOFFS: Kucherov enters the 2025 Stanley Cup Playoffs as Tampa Bay's all-time franchise leader in postseason goals (53), assists (114), scoring (167 pts.), plus/minus (+37), power-play goals (19), power-play scoring (71 pts.) and shots (442). He ranks second all-time in Lightning history for playoff games played (147). Kucherov played all five games of the 2024 Playoffs and co-led the team in scoring (7 pts.), even-strength scoring (4 pts.) and power-play points (3) while leading the team in assists (7). Kucherov averaged 21:26 time on ice per game, second among forwards and third overall. He tied teammate Victor Hedman for second in points-per-game (1.40) among all players in the 2024 Playoffs. Kucherov skated in all six games of the 2023 Playoffs and recorded a goal and six points to lead the Lightning for assists (5) and rank tied for first for scoring. He posted eight goals and 27 points in 23 games for the Lightning in the 2022 Playoffs, pacing the Bolts for assists (19) and scoring. Kucherov ranked fourth in the NHL for playoff scoring in 2022 and fifth for assists. He also ranked tied for first in the NHL for power-play goals (6). Kucherov has finished first or tied for first on the Lightning for scoring each of the last five postseasons. He recorded eight goals and 32 points during the 2021 Playoffs and led the Lightning and the NHL for assists (24), scoring and power-play scoring (19 PP pts.). Kucherov set the franchise record for most points in a playoff series after posting 3-8—11 pts. in 6 GP during the first round versus Florida in 2021. He led the Lightning and the NHL in the 2020 Playoffs for assists (27), scoring (34 pts.) and plus/minus (+15). Kucherov has paced the Lightning for playoff scoring a franchise-best seven times: 7 pts in 2024, 6 pts. In 2023, 27 pts in 2022, 32 pts. in 2021, 34 pts. in 2020, 17 pts. in 2018 and 19 pts. in 2016. Kucherov ranks third among active NHL players for career playoff scoring (167 pts.) behind only Sidney Crosby (201 pts.) and Evgeni Malkin (180 pts.). He ranks second among active NHL players for career playoff assists (114) behind only Crosby (130 assists). Kucherov is tied with Adam Oates (114) for 16th-most career playoff assists in the NHL and sits 21st all-time for career playoff scoring (active and inactive players).

BIG MAC IS BACK

Defenseman Ryan McDonagh returned to the Lightning this offseason after being re-acquired in a trade with the Nashville Predators and picked up right where he left off after helping the team win back-to-back Stanley Cups in 2020 and 2021. McDonagh led the team with his +43 rating, a mark that set a new franchise record for plus-minus in a season. He played in his 1,000th NHL game on March 27 vs. Utah. McDonagh has continued to lead the way in sacrifice, leading the team with 151 blocked shots during the 2024-25 regular season. McDonagh now ranks seventh in NHL history for career blocked shots with 2,011 and is one of eight NHL defensemen in NHL history to eclipse 2,000. McDonagh has helped limit goals against, as the Lightning ranked 20th in 2023-24 for goals against per game after sitting 14th in 2022-23. They had the fourth-best goals against per game rating in the NHL this season once McDonagh returned to the fold.

GUENTZEL THE GOALS GUY

After signing a seven-year contract with Tampa Bay on July 1, 2024, Jake Guentzel had a seamless transition on the ice, recording 80 points with 41 goals and 39 assists in 80 games for the Bolts... His 17 power-play goals led the Lightning. Guentzel became just the third skater in Lightning franchise history to hit the 30-goal mark in his first season with the club. The Omaha, Nebraska, native also became just the fourth player in team history with 60 or more points in their first season with the club, joining Dino Ciccarelli (35-35—60, 77 GP, 1996-97), Brad Richards (21-41—62, 82 GP, 2000-01), Cory Stillman (25-55— 80, 81 GP, 2003-04) and Brian Bradley (42-44-86, 80 GP, 1992-93)...His 41 goals this season were a career high. Since making his Stanley Cup Playoffs debut in 2017, Guentzel has eight game-winning goals in the postseason, tied with Brayden Point for the fourth-most game-winners in that time.

GOALS, GOALS, GOALS

Tampa Bay led the NHL in goal scoring in 2024-25 with 292 goals in 82 games for an NHL-best 3.56 goals for per game. The Lightning were one of three NHL teams to sit in the top five (WPG, VGK) in both goals for per game as well as goals against per game. Forward Brayden Point led the team with 42 goals, which were sixth-most in the NHL this season. Jake Guentzel had 41, while Nikita Kucherov (37) and Brayden Point (35) also scored at least 35 goals. Tampa Bay was the only team in the NHL this season with more than two 35-goal scorers.

SPECIAL PERFORMANCES

Tampa Bay had the NHL's fifth-best power play in the 2024-25 regular season and scored on 25.9% of its opportunities, while the team's penalty kill ranked sixth at 81.6%. The Lightning scored 11 shorthanded goals in 2024-25, third-most in the NHL behind only the New York Rangers (18) and Florida Panthers (12). Tampa Bay finished 2023-24 as the league's top power play and was fifth in penalty kill. The Lightning are the only NHL team to be in the league's top six for both power play and penalty kill in each of 2023-24 and 2024-25 seasons.

BIG CAT, BIG YEAR

Tampa Bay Lightning goalie Andrei Vasilevskiy finished 2024-25 with 38 wins, his most in the past three seasons. Vasilevskiy's .921 save percentage in 63 games was his third highest across his 11 NHL seasons, beaten only by the matching .925 save percentages he posted in 2018-19 and 2020-21. The 30-year-old Russian goaltender ranked second in the NHL this season in wins, saves, save percentage, and shutouts while having the fourth-best goals against average among goalies with 25+ starts. Vasilevskiy also had the NHL's second-best save percentage (.863) on high-danger shots, beaten only by Los Angeles Kings' Darcy Kuemper. He earned his 300th NHL win on Nov. 14 vs. Winnipeg in his 490th career game, becoming the fastest goalie in NHL history to reach 300 wins. The goalie is the franchise leader in wins (331), games played (540), longest winning streak (11 GP) and shutouts (40). He played in his 500th NHL game on Dec. 12 and had the most wins (305) by any goalie in NHL history through their first 500 games.

TIP YOUR CAP

Tampa Bay's Victor Hedman finished his first season as captain of the Lightning among the NHL's leaders in scoring by a defenseman once again. Hedman became the first Lightning player in team history to reach 600 assists, doing so on Jan. 16 vs. Anaheim. Hedman also played in his 1,100th NHL game this season. Hedman finished the season tied for the sixth-highest producing defenseman in the NHL with 15 goals and 51 assists for 66 points. His 51 assists were also tied for sixth among NHL defenders, while his 15 goals were tied for ninth-most. His 26 power-play points were tied for fifth-most by an NHL defenseman. Hedman also surpassed Borje Salming (787) to rank 20th all-time for career scoring by an NHL defenseman with his 794 points. He is now third in career scoring by a Swedish defenseman, trailing only Erik Karlsson (870) and Nicklas Lidstrom (1,142). This season also saw Hedman pass Steven Stamkos for the most games played in Lightning team history, and he sits atop the list with 1,131 games. This marked Hedman's 16th season with the Tampa Bay Lightning, tied with Stamkos for most in franchise history.

DID SOMEONE SAY PLAYOFFS?

The Tampa Bay Lightning will open the first round of the 2025 Stanley Cup Playoffs against the Florida Panthers. Tampa Bay has qualified for the playoffs for a franchise-best eighth consecutive season. The Lightning have 122 playoff wins since the 2000-01 season, most in the NHL. The team also paces the NHL in playoff games and wins since 2014-15 with 146 games and 87 playoff wins. Since the 2020 Stanley Cup Playoffs, Tampa Bay also remains atop the NHL with 82 games played and 51 wins. Nikita Kucherov's 106 points in 82 playoff games are the NHL's 2nd-most since 2020 (Connor McDavid 108).

DYNAMIC DUO

Tampa Bay Lightning forwards Brandon Hagel and Anthony Cirelli spent much of 2024-25 playing on the same line, and both had career seasons offensively. The duo also did their job on defense, as Hagel's +33 rating in plus-minus was fourth-highest by any NHL forward while Cirelli ranked seventh at +30. Hagel tied for 11th in the NHL scoring race with his first 90-point season and also set a new career high with 35 goals. He ranked fifth in the NHL for both even-strength goals (32) and points (72) this season. Cirelli also set new career marks this season in goals (27) assists (32) and points (59) with his first career 50-point season in the NHL. Hagel and Cirelli were one of just five sets of NHL teammates to have at least five points shorthanded this season, joining Carolina forwards Sebastian Aho and Seth Jarvis, Buffalo's Ryan McLeod and Alex Tuch, Washington's Aliaksei Protas and Tom Wilson as well as New York Rangers Mika Zibanejad and Vincent Trocheck.

OFFENSE FROM THE DEFENSE

Tampa Bay's blueline provided more offense than 30 NHL teams in 2024-25. Lightning defensemen combined to score 208 points in 2024-25, second-most of any NHL team behind only Colorado's 211 defensive points. Lightning defensemen combined for 170 assists—most by any defensive core in 2024-25—and tied for eighth in the NHL with 38 goals. Captain Victor Hedman led the Tampa Bay blueline with 66 points, and Darren Raddysh added a career-high 37 points in 73 games. Ryan McDonagh (31) and Erik Cernak (21) also finished above 20 points. Raddysh and Cernak joined Emil Lilleberg (19) as Lightning defensemen to set new career highs in scoring in 2024-25, while Nick Perbix (19) and JJ Moser (14) also had double-digit offensive seasons.

CENTURY MARK FOR TAMPA BAY

The Tampa Bay Lightning finished this season with 102 standings points thanks to a 47-26-8 record. This season marked the first time Tampa Bay has secured a 100-point season since 2021-22, when they had 110 points with a 51-23-8 record. The Lightning had 98 points in each of the previous two seasons entering 2024-25. Tampa Bay's 47 wins tied for ninth-most in the NHL this season, while their 41 regulation wins tied the Dallas Stars for sixth-most.
